

MISS HECKEL ELOPES WITH A NEGRO.

She Sends News of Her Marriage to Her Father and Asks His Forgiveness.

The theory of Martin Heckel, a foreman in a factory, who lives at 243 Scholz street, Williamsburgh, that his pretty 17-year-old daughter, Eliza had eloped with a negro, was corroborated and on her way home in the evening took the habit of meeting Carl. Heckel followed her one night and when she joined Carl as he threatened to kill the negro unless he recanted his attachment to her. Carl promised never to meet Eliza again. However, they contrived to meet clandestinely and on their last meeting Carl told her the secret of his love. Heckel made an unsuccessful search for the missing girl and the day after she disappeared became convinced that she had run away. He then reported to the Lee Avenue Police Court on Tuesday and applied for a warrant for her arrest; but none was granted. He left the court room crying. On Wednesday, when he received a letter from her in which she told him that the Rev. A. W. Fisher, pastor of a church he had attended, had married her and Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Eliza's elopement for the negro was brought to the attention of her father by an anonymous letter three weeks ago. Eliza was enmeshed in Waukegan's rope factory in Morgan Avenue, and on her way home in the evening took the habit of meeting Carl. Heckel followed her one night and when she joined Carl as he threatened to kill the negro unless he recanted his attachment to her. Carl promised never to meet Eliza again. However, they contrived to meet clandestinely and on their last meeting Carl told her the secret of his love. Heckel made an unsuccessful search for the missing girl and the day after she disappeared became convinced that she had run away. He then reported to the Lee Avenue Police Court on Tuesday and applied for a warrant for her arrest; but none was granted. He left the court room crying. On Wednesday, when he received a letter from her in which she told him that the Rev. A. W. Fisher, pastor of a church he had attended, had married her and Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

Summer Resorts.

New York.

MOUNTAIN HOUSE,
Cornwall Heights, N. Y.
Two open as a select family hotel, elevation 1,200 feet; the air is clear, climate a positive cure for rheumatism.

Address J. W. MEAGHER, Cornwall-on-Hudson, or 145 West 43d st.

DR. STRONG'S SANITARIUM,
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.
A popular resort for health, change, rest, or recreation all the year.

Electric lights, steam, open fireplaces; scarpans and promenade on the roof.

Suites of rooms with private baths.

Cooking, laundry, heating, electricity; all baths and all remedial appliances; new Turkish and Mason baths in the sunken unapproached in elegance and comfort.

Send for illustrated circular.

THE WINDSOR HOTEL
SARATOGA,
is now open for the reception of guests. Send for exquisite illustrated souvenir pamphlet to WILLARD LESTER MANAGER.

FORT WILLIAM HENRY HOTEL
LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.

This is the most elegantly furnished and comfortable hotel in the Adirondacks. All rooms have private baths, steam heat, electric lights, etc.

Rooms $2 per day, suites $12 weekly.

G. F. MARSHALL, Proprietor.

THE HILLSIDE
HAGUE-ON-LAKE, GEORGE, N. Y.
Telegraph and daily mail. Terms reasonable.

JOHN McCLEANATHAN, Hague, Warren County, N. Y.

THE PHENIX,
LAKE GEORGE, N. Y.
Privately owned. Fine accommodations, lake and water recreations. $2 per day, $12 weekly.

G. F. MARSHALL, Proprietor.

TICONDEROGA,
BETWEEN LAKE GEORGE AND LAKE CHAMPLAIN.

New, bright and convenient to all lake and railway points. $2 per day; special rates weekly.

J. S. CLARK, Proprietor.

KATTSKILL HOUSE,
WARE GROVE,
stands on the bank of the lake, beautiful surroundings. Good bathing, boating, croquet, tennis, golf. Terms reasonable. W. D. WILSON, Katskill Bay, N. Y.

THOUSAND ISLANDS
Hotel Westminster, Westminster Park, Alexandria Bay, N. Y. Inimitably the finest location in the Thousand Islands. Rates $10 to $12 weekly. $2 per day. Special rates to families and parties. Send for illustrated pamphlet.

H. E. INGALLS, Proprietor.

Cornwall-on-Hudson

SMITH HOUSE
New open under new management.

CHARLES H. WILLIAMS,
Proprietor and Manager.

Long Island.

At Lawrence Beach, L. I.

JOY THE SEASIDE
WHILE YOU
ATTEND TO BUSINESS.

A QUIET BEACH FOR FAMILIES.

BEST FOR BRAIN WORKERS AND A SELECT SEA-SIDE HOME. ONLY ONE HOUR FROM THE CITY.

FREE INVESTMENT RECOMPENSE.

Spacious bathing, boating, carriage riding, over miles of magnificent roads. No pier or excursion boat only people of refinement and a desire to enjoy life to the full can afford to pay extra expense at the sea-side.

DOULY NOW OPEN AT ASYLUM BAY.

ALL COTTAGES RENTED.

ALL BOATS FOR HIRE.

BOATING LOTS FREE.

To those who hold parties. The finest offer ever made to desirable parties.

BENJ. W. HITCHCOCK,
14 Chambers st., New York.

Long Beach Hotel, L. I.

IS OPEN.

AN IDEAL SEA-SIDE RESORT

ON THE ATLANTIC.

To rent for the season—June to October—a few select rooms, including all expenses included.

See Time in this paper.

CHAS. E. HITCHCOCK, Manager.

MANHATTAN BEACH HOTEL and the

ORIENTAL HOTEL

OPEN.

THE FINEST SEA-SIDE HOTELS IN

THE WORLD.

CONCERTS EVERY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

MULLINGER'S ORCHESTRA.

MANHATTAN HOTEL

Homes and gardens, Shelter Island, L. I., N. Y., healthfully located, beautiful scenery, drives and paths leading to bathing, boating, dancing, etc. Open until sunset. Rates $10 to $12 weekly. $2 per day. Special rates to families and parties. Send for illustrated pamphlet.

W. A. WILSON, Proprietor, Manhattan House, Shelter Island, New York.

"OUT ON LONG ISLAND."

Illustrated descriptive book on the resorts.

Issued by the L. E. B. Co. for season 1892, and contains lists of hotels and cottages, inns, restaurants, etc.

M. SMITH, Trade Manager, L. E. B., Long Island Way, and at 1425 Broadway, N. Y. 20th floor, 14th Street.

Also at 14 Chambers st., New York.

HOTEL SAN CARLOS,
607½ South Oxford, Brooklyn.

Summer houses, elegantly furnished at tea parlor, restaurant, etc., excellent cuisine. One electric motor.

WATSON HOUSE, Babylon, L. I.

FISHING, SAILING, BATHING.

Rooms, suites, patios, etc., everything new and first-class; all inclusive. Five minutes from beach.

J. W. CORNELL, proprietor.

BEDFORD SPRINGS

BEDFORD, PA.

"THE CARLTON OF AMERICA."

HOTEL OPENS JUNE 22D.

I. B. BOYD, Manager.

MOUNT PLEASANT HOUSE,

MOUNT PLEASANT, PA.

Summer houses, elegantly furnished at tea parlor, restaurant, etc., excellent cuisine. One electric motor.

WATSON HOUSE, Babylon, L. I.

FISHING, SAILING, BATHING.

Rooms, suites, patios, etc., everything new and first-class; all inclusive. Five minutes from beach.

J. W. CORNELL, proprietor.

THE SUN, FRIDAY, JUNE 24, 1892.

MISS HECKEL ELOPES WITH A NEGRO.

She Sends News of Her Marriage to Her Father and Asks His Forgiveness.

The theory of Martin Heckel, a foreman in a factory, who lives at 243 Scholz street, Williamsburgh, that his pretty 17-year-old daughter, Eliza had eloped with a negro, was corroborated and on her way home in the evening took the habit of meeting Carl. Heckel followed her one night and when she joined Carl as he threatened to kill the negro unless he recanted his attachment to her. Carl promised never to meet Eliza again. However, they contrived to meet clandestinely and on their last meeting Carl told her the secret of his love. Heckel made an unsuccessful search for the missing girl and the day after she disappeared became convinced that she had run away. He then reported to the Lee Avenue Police Court on Tuesday and applied for a warrant for her arrest; but none was granted. He left the court room crying. On Wednesday, when he received a letter from her in which she told him that the Rev. A. W. Fisher, pastor of a church he had attended, had married her and Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Eliza's elopement for the negro was brought to the attention of her father by an anonymous letter three weeks ago. Eliza was enmeshed in Waukegan's rope factory in Morgan Avenue, and on her way home in the evening took the habit of meeting Carl. Heckel followed her one night and when she joined Carl as he threatened to kill the negro unless he recanted his attachment to her. Carl promised never to meet Eliza again. However, they contrived to meet clandestinely and on their last meeting Carl told her the secret of his love. Heckel made an unsuccessful search for the missing girl and the day after she disappeared became convinced that she had run away. He then reported to the Lee Avenue Police Court on Tuesday and applied for a warrant for her arrest; but none was granted. He left the court room crying. On Wednesday, when he received a letter from her in which she told him that the Rev. A. W. Fisher, pastor of a church he had attended, had married her and Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

Heckel went to the clergymen's house and learned what Eliza had written to him was true. The minister said that the girl, accompanied by the negro, came to his house on Saturday night and asked him to intercede with the police. Carl was with them. Eliza told the minister that she was an orphan. It was not a pleasant task for the 122nd Street police to find her mother and her Carl, and she hoped her father would forgive her.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.

This is to certify that Joseph Carl of Brooklyn, N. Y., aged 21, a mechanic, and Eliza Heckel, aged 17, a maid, were married in the 122nd Street Police Court on the 18th day of June 1892, by the Rev. A. W. Fisher, Minister. Phil Carl and Eliza were both dead, and that she was an orphan without a home.

Heckel went to the Lee Avenue Police Court and applied for a warrant for the arrest of his daughter and her colored husband, but the clerk told him they had committed no crime.